

FBI Director Recognizes Distinguished Community Leaders

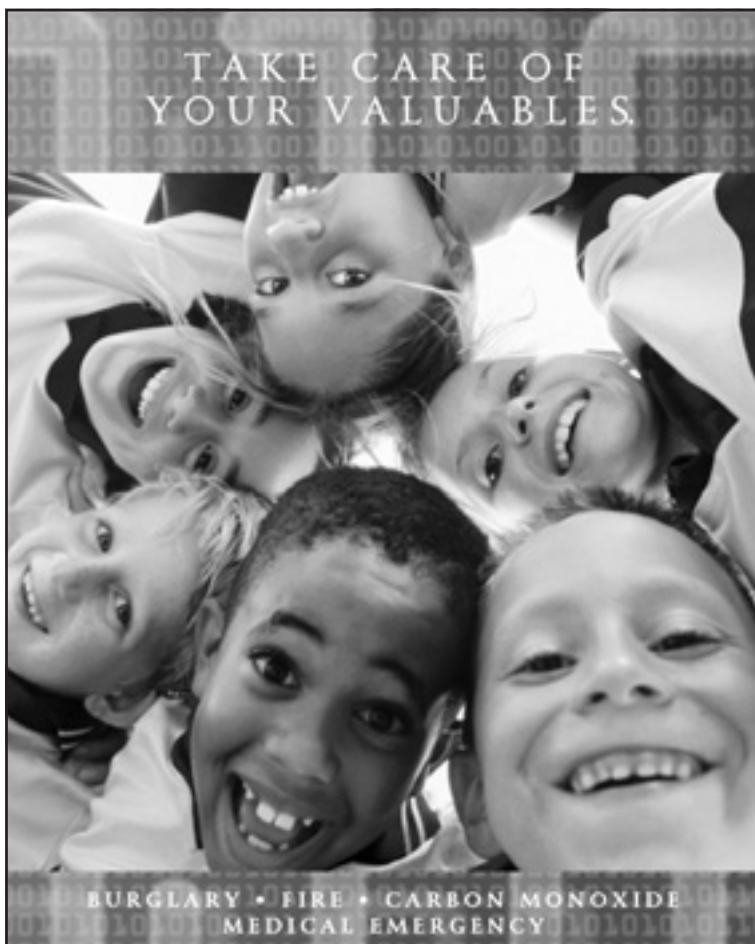

Ann Dugger receiving award from Director Robert S. Mueller

In a ceremony March 20 at FBI Headquarters in Washington D.C., Director Robert S. Mueller recognized recipients of the 2008 Director's Community Leadership Award. These leaders, selected by their area FBI field office, demonstrated outstanding contributions to their local communities through service. The FBI can only conduct investigations and protect the American people from crime and acts of extremism if it has the support and understanding of the American people. That's why the Special Agents in Charge of each of our 56 field offices work so closely with their communities and community organizations.

"Whatever the motivation-an unfilled need, a tragic occurrence, a desire to give back-these are people who make things happen and enlist others in their cause," said Director Mueller. "They are activists who have earned their prestige through good works."
